Invitation

EMC Hungary 2027 – EMCH2027, International Conference on Electromagnetic Compatibility is the second occasion of the biennial EMCH conference series on Electromagnetic Compatibility organized jointly by the University of Miskolc, Rohde & Schwarz Hungária Kft. and thyssenkrupp Components Technology Hungary Kft.

The goal of the conference is to provide an international forum for electromagnetic compatibility engineers, researchers, and professionals to share their contributions in the fields of EMC measurement techniques, engineering design solutions and simulation techniques of commercial, automotive, aerospace and any other (e.g. healthcare, railway, military etc.) applications. The conference caters to both academicians and industrial professionals, therefore state-of-the-art university research and cutting-edge industrial innovation will be presented side by side, followed by social gatherings that promote the exchange of information and nurture fruitful cooperations between the various fields of the profession.

Conference Topics

- EMC simulation techniques and use cases
- Power Integrity and Signal Integrity
- ESD related challenges
- Reverberation test methods
- Shielding techniques and use cases
- EMC measurement techniques
- Layout solutions and concepts
- Filtering (active, passive)
- High voltage applications
- AI application on the field of EMC
- Human Exposure to Electromagnetic Fields
- Lightning Protection and EMC Considerations

We sincerely hope that you will find this invitation attracting and support our conference.
